MELROSE PUBLIC LIBRARY
MELROSE, MA

Dear Seniors,

Change. It's inevitable. We have been forced to face change since the sixth grade annex then the Franklin School in seventh grade to Melrose High School as eighth graders. Each new beginning has brought its share of challenges, however it has only created a more unified group.

Even though we were the youngest class to share the hallways, we now proudly walk together as the Class of 2011. Since the beginning we have been in buildings separated from others. However, this separation was an advantage, allowing us to strengthen meaningful relationships. Our diverse personalities all contribute to the comedy of our group, and it is this special dynamic that will last in our memories. Over time we have taught one another how to manage high school in preparation for the next step towards independence.

When you look at the moments captured on these pages, we hope it reminds you of the bittersweet memories of our high school days. As graduates, we are all ready to move on, so enjoy what life has in store for you, and remember anything can change in the blink of an eye.

Good Luck Class of 2011!

Editors-in-Chief

Melanie DeYoung & Anna Semock

2011

Dear Ms. Dorr & Mr. Bolduc,

Over the past four years, the both of you have made our experience at Melrose High School an eventful and memorable chapter in our lives. Your guidance has created a special camaraderie. From helping with academics to solving the woes of the teenage world, nothing could repay you for your support and inspiration.

As a class we have gained much more than just a few free t-shirts. Since we founded The Froshmore Dance in 2008, it has become a tradition. Pink is no longer the worst color of Spirit Week, we have more lanyards than keys, and through determination, organization, and proper planning, you have taught us that virtually anything can be accomplished. Wednesday morning student government meetings, Friday nights spent in the gymnasium dancing, or weekends devoted to arts and crafts for our hallways, you have dedicated your time and lives to the Class of 2011. You have become more than advisors; kind and caring parents seem to be a better title.

We hope the time we have spent together was as much of a pleasure to both of you as it was for us. We truly could not have had this great experience without you.

With Much Appreciation,
The Class of 2011

Fun times in high school. Those drama parties were pretty rad. Mafia never got old! Well, okay, it kind of did, but no one really cared. It was still fun. I kinda loved the wacky pranks we always got into, at Canobie or New Hampshire or just wherever in Melrose. Let's hope everything's still just as fun once we become grumpy college freshmen!

Class of '11 finally out of Melrose, can't wait to get out of here and never look back. I'll remember hangin out with friends, broken vending machines, infinite Mario Kart in CAD, Dino's horse head, and being diagnosed with senioritis during junior year. Doing the bare minimum in every class and still maintaining a 3.5 GPA goes to show how people have to try to get bad grades.

Evangelist Robert H. Schuller describes four kinds of people in the world today: the cop-outs, the hold-outs, the drop-outs, and the all-outs.

First are the cop-outs. They set no goals and make no decisions.

Second are the hold-outs. They have a beautiful dream, but they're afraid to respond to its challenge because they aren't sure they can make it.

Third are the drop-outs. They start to make their dream come true. They know their role. They set their goals, but when the going gets tough, they quit.

Finally, there are the all-outs. They are the people who know their role. They want and need and are going to be stars - star students, star parents, star waitresses. They want to shine out as an inspiration to others. They set their goals. The all-outs never quit.

They're committed.

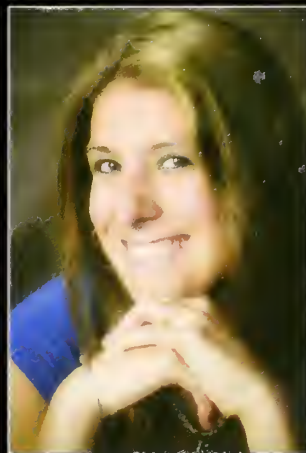

I hope you see yourself as an all-out. That means you have goals in your life that you are committed to making.

Matt,
We know wonderful things are in store for you! We love you and are proud of you.
